A person wearing a red helmet with the word 'CAMP' on it, sunglasses, and a grey long-sleeved shirt is ziplining. They are wearing a green safety harness with the word 'ASPIRING' on it. The background is a dense green forest under a clear blue sky.

“It was amazing to see the students be challenged and grow as individuals whilst at the summit. The summit staff guided our students in making the most of every opportunity and the energy they presented with was truly infectious. Thank you!”

EVERY STUDENT GETS A REAL WIN

Target, Stretch, Super Stretch is how The Summit sets the challenge level on every activity and it's a big part of why the camp works for a whole mixed class, not just the confident kids.

TARGET The baseline. Achievable for most, still meaningful. The nervous kid gets a real win.

STRETCH A step further, where most students surprise themselves.

SUPER STRETCH The full send, for the kid who wants to find their edge.

Students pick their own level before the activity starts — no teacher pointing, no built-in peer pressure. That alone changes the dynamic: the nervous kid isn't "the one who didn't do it properly," they hit their Target by choice.
